

FLEISCHMANN HERE IN TOWN

Man Who Welched for $40,000
at Saratoga Has Not Gone
Abroad but Is Waiting Quietly in His Rooms on Broadway.

SPORTS BELIEVE THAT FRIENDS WILL HELP HIM.

Report that He Intended Seeking
New Fortune in South Africa Based on Letter He Is Said to Have Written.

Friends of William N. Fleischmann, who were grieved a few days ago by the announcement that he had overplayed himself on the races at Saratoga and had welched on $40,000 of bets, had another surprise to-day when they read in the morning papers that he had either already gone abroad or was about to go, in an effort to recoup his fortunes in another land.

Fleischmann's rooms in this city are on the fourth floor of No. 1129 Broadway. When an Evening World reporter called there early to-day the morning talk, rolls and newspapers had not been removed from the hall. The door was opened in response to a ring and the visitor was told that Mr. Fleischmann had gone out.

When told of the report that Fleischmann had left the country, the person who answered the bell smiled derisively and declared that he was still in this city and residing there, but repeated the first statement, that "he had just gone out," and it was not known when he would return.

How the Report Started.

The report of his intention to seek a new field in a foreign land was based on a copy of a letter Fleischmann is said to have written to his cousin, the Mayor of Cincinnati.

It was supposed that he had sailed on the Codric on Friday.

The letter to Mayor Fleischmann is said to read as follows:
"The stories that you have seen in the papers regarding my overplay are true. I regret the publicity more than I can tell you and, it is needless to say, I regret the predicament in which I find myself. I played beyond my means and hoped to recoup by one last big plunge. The last effort, of course, failed, and I was landed high and dry. I cannot plead insanity, because I was thoroughly well aware of what I was doing. I thought at first of committing suicide, but I was restrained from so rash an act by the thought of the added disgrace to the family name. I had gone from here to Paris and from there, I think, to South Africa. In another land I hope to regain what I have lost, and if I do I shall pay you all the money you have lost through me, and I shall pay every one else I owe. This is the best assurance I can make at present."

Relatives Are Reticent.

Inquiry at the Fleischmann stable elicited the statement that the young man had really sailed and was now on the ocean. When told of what had been learned at Fleischmann's rooms, they replied that they knew nothing about it.

His father's place of business, at Washington and Perry streets, was called up by telephone. To the question whether the young man was there or not, the man answering the phone replied that he was not, that they didn't know where he was, nor did they wish to know.

The impression prevails, however, among the sporting acquaintances of young Fleischmann that friends will come to his aid, and that he is remaining quietly here in town until the matter can be arranged.

SHOT BY BURGLAR HE HAD CAPTURED

Kiello Romino Grabs Man Who
Is Leaving by the Fire-Escape and in Struggle Is Wounded Severely.

Kiello Romino, of No. 502 West Forty-seventh street, was shot in the left leg by a burglar who tried to get into his room early to-day. Although almost every one in the block was aroused by the shot the two thieves escaped. As no one saw them except in the dark the police have little chance of detecting them.

Romino was awakened from a sound sleep by the grating of the men's feet on the fire-escape outside his window. He leaped out of bed, and as the burglars started to run back down to the ground he seized one of them by the collar.

The burglar fired at his captor. The bullet struck him in the left leg and he fell back, releasing his hold. Soon men were running from hallways to follow the burglars, but they dodged into the street and escaped.

DOG CAPTURES BURGLAR.

Fritz the Spitz Aids Policeman
Schultz in Arresting Thief.

George Arnsel, a B. R. T. Company Inspector, of No. 1117 Manhattan avenue, Williamsburg, has a spitz dog, Fritz. Fritz was locked in the Ramsel apartment to-day.

Albert Britman, thirty-two years old, of No. 23 Forsyth street, this city, entered the apartment and kicked the spitz out.

The spitz ran to the car stables and barked at Ramsel. Fritz the spitz to his apartment and met Britman coming out. An encounter followed, in which Fritz the spitz took hold and did not let go until Policeman Schultz appeared and clubbed Britman. He was taken to the Ewen street station and held on a charge of burglary.
